Stepping Right out at you. Here's Rudy Vallee in an unusual "straight" pose exemplifying his "straight" music. He'll be at the Garden tonight with his band to do the "rattle" with Benny Goodman. Jitterbugs from all parts of New England will compete tonight in the grand finals to the sweet strains of these bands. The winner to be rewarded with a week's contract at the Mayfair.

And in this corner of the "swing" is none other than "Benny" Goodman, the "champion." But tonight the jitterbugs will decide the issue of straight or swing—and win or lose, it will be a grand take-in.

abor 'Polices' New Wage Law

Under orders from the high command of the American Federation of Labor, central labor unions throughout Massachusetts were busy today organizing "labor battalions" to police industry and see to it the new wage-hour act is observed.

They will investigate reports of evasion of the act by employers.

If they discover evidence of violation, they will submit their findings to Elmer F. Davis, administrator.

LOCALS TO HELP

Kenneth I. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L. in Massachusetts, said this morning the "labor police" would go into action immediately.

"We are so organized we could start functioning by noon," he declared.

"Central unions will be assisted by locals in some areas."

"Naturally, we hope employers will try to do the purposes of the law, but if they do, they will be swiftly called to account."

The wage-hour act went into effect early today. The "labor police" will be nationwide.

COVERS ALL INDUSTRIES

Explaining his call for what amounts to a secret service, William Green, national president of the federation, said the wage-hour administration had only 100 investigators and was nearly broke.

He planned to establish 500 offices throughout the country to supervise the battalions.

Eventually, he plans a system of supervision that will cover every unit in every industry.

Under the act, which it is hoped will involve approximately 11,000,000 persons, minimum pay is fixed at 25 cents an hour, and a work-week is 44 hours.

It prohibits employment of children under 14 on goods that go into interstate commerce.

Governors Pledge

Wage, Hour Law Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, received pledges of support from many governors.

"The far-reaching labor standards act went into effect at 12:01 this morning, putting a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours of an estimated 11,000,000 American workmen."

Andrews had asked the states to help, at least temporarily, in

Wage Questions Answered Here

The Wages and Hours Editor of the Boston Evening American answers questions sent in by employers and workers on the new law.

Q.—What does "child labor" mean to me under the new law? I am employing several girls, 17 years of age, one 16, and want to know what I am supposed to do in my report to the federal government?—"Manager," Jamaica Plain.

A.—First, write into your report the girls are MINORS. If you want protection against provisions for child labor, write to the Child Labor Division, the U. S. Labor Department, and you can get a license for child labor, assuming your argument meets the requirements of the law.

Q.—I drive a bus from New York to Boston every day. My employer says the new wage and hours law does not affect me. Is he right?—F. F. G. Jr., Fitchburg.

A.—Yes, he is. In your particular case maximum hours have been established by the Interstate Commerce Commission. This also applies to street railway employees, or local trolley or bus lines. Also railroad employees governed by the Interstate Commerce Act.

Q.—What does the new law require me to do, as employer of 337 men, about earning basis?—F. R. Cambridge.

A.—Aside from the biographical background of each worker to be supplied to the federal Government (including work hours and basis of pay) you must submit the OVERTIME PAY paid each employee each work-week. The new law is strict on this point.

Laud W. R. Hearst Talk

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Widespread approval was shown by comment in Washington today on William Randolph Hearst's radio address Saturday night, replying to Winston Churchill's broadcast last Sunday urging British-French-American political and military cooperation. Some of the expressions follow:

Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War in the cabinet of President Hoover and a war veteran who served overseas in France, said:

"Mr. Hearst has gone straight to the heart of the matter raised by Mr. Winston Churchill. My idea is that in place of Mr. Churchill telling us to play with Great Britain and France, they should play with us in the matter of a few tokens on the war debt."

"Our allies in the World War did not treat us very well after we joined them the last time. It is clear what Mr. Churchill's words imply, but every inclination of the American people is against joining in another war."

Law 'Tips' Red Caps—You Can, Too

Philadelphia, Oct. 24 (AP)—Red caps may expect, but need depend on tips no longer.

Under the new federal wage-hour law, they will receive a minimum of 25 cents an hour from employer railroads. They must report tips, and if these total less than the minimum the companies will make up the difference.

The Pennsylvania railroad announced yesterday it would pay the minimum to porters. Officials said other railroads planned to do the same.

$15,000,000 Tax Theft Laid to 45

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Forty-four men and one woman were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of defrauding the government of at least $15,000,000 in taxes through an illicit liquor ring operating in five United States cities and Canada.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Raymond P. Whearty characterized the case as "one of the biggest of the alcohol tax unit has developed against illegal still operators."

The indictment was returned before Federal Judge William Bondy.

"Conservative estimates based on the Treasury agents' investigation of this case have convinced us that this gang produced at least three and a half million gallons of 190-proof alcohol for illicit distribution," Whearty said.

The indictment set forth that the bulk of the liquor was shipped between 1931 and 1937 to Boston, Detroit, Buffalo, Newark, New York and Canada.

Federal agents, the indictment said, traced the ring's production plants to Orange, Ulster, Sullivan, Rockland and Dutchess counties, with Newburgh, N. Y., named as the center of the gang's activity.

'Ladies' Day' At Spy Trial

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (INS)—A lively set-to, with a blonde and a brunette aligned against a redhead, loomed in federal court today when the trial of Johanna Hofmann and two former American soldiers on espionage charges resumed before Judge Knox here.

The brunette, Senta de Wanger, Hempstead, N. Y., liquor store owner and alleged confidante of Mitchell and Roosevelt Field aviators, is expected to take the stand as soon as defense counsel complete their cross-examination of Guenther Gustave Rumrich, confessed Nazi spy and principal witness for the government.

Following her, according to the prosecutor's present plans, will be blonde Mrs. Kate Moog Busch. Both she and Miss de Wanger have been in "protective custody" of the government since last June 5.

Before cross-examination of Rumrich, today, U. S. Attorney Lamar Hardy rose and said:

"Your honor, the government has the final statement of this witness (Rumrich), Mr. Matthews (Benjamin Matthews, attorney for Erich Glasser, one of those on trial) has no right to see it, but the United States attorney's office is willing to give it to him provided he will offer it in evidence."

Matthews rejected the conditions and the "final statement" remained in Hardy's possession. Defense counsel thereupon proceeded with cross-examination of Rumrich.

Special Guard For Lindberghs

LANNION, France, Oct. 24 (AP)—A special police inspector was given a permanent assignment here today, apparently to watch over the security of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his family.

Lannion is only about 12 miles from the small town on France's northern coast, Port-Blanc, where the American aviator takes a launch back and forth to his home on Illiec Island.

(Col. Lindbergh, his wife and two sons moved last June from Kent, England, where they had lived for two and a half years after leaving the United States. Illiec island, which the colonel bought last April, is large enough only for its castle, once the home of the opera singer, Mme. Adelina Patti.)

The new special police inspector, who will supplement the regular police commissioner at Lannion, is Charles Josselin. He had been stationed at Laval, in the Mayenne department.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh make frequent trips from their home on Illiec island, which is near Saint Gildas island, where Lindbergh's collaborator, Dr. Alexis Carrell, resides, and where the two continue their scientific experiments with the artificial heart.

(Colonel Lindbergh at present is in Berlin.)

Authorities refused to disclose whether the special protection was requested or was merely a precautionary measure taken on their own initiative.

Meanwhile work has been started on a new airport a few miles from Lannion. When it is finished in June, Lindbergh will be able to keep his airplane there. The landing field now used for the Lannion vicinity is at Morlaix, 37 miles from Port-Blanc.

School Dance Ban May Lift

Long under official ban, dancing in Boston's schools loomed today under the sponsorship of Dr. Patrick J. Foley of South Boston, a member of the Boston School Committee.

"I don't see any reason why our school children cannot dance together under the proper supervision," Dr. Foley declared in commenting on favorable action on the question recently taken in the Chicago schools.

It was expected he would broach the question of dancing to fellow members at the weekly meeting of the committee this afternoon.

Dr. Foley's sponsorship came on the heels of inauguration of dancing in Chicago school, on authorization of the Chicago board of education. The move was seen as a deterrent to juvenile crime.

"Of course," Dr. Foley explained, "education comes first and recreation second in our Boston schools."

"But it seems reasonable to me that juniors and seniors who want to dance should have the privilege. I don't see any reason why such school dances are not all right."

"Pupils ought to dance together providing the dances are proper and the parties are chaperoned."

In fact, a great many schools in many parts of Massachusetts have dances Saturday nights, and pupils and teachers both attend these get-togethers."

Bright Red Shroud for May Irwin

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—May Irwin, the comedienne who wowed New York audiences in the golden nineties with her comic songs, was buried today, clad in a bright red dress, finished for her an hour before she died Saturday.

She had always liked bright colored clothes and asked to be buried in red. Miss Irwin, 76, spent the last year and a half in a wheelchair following a paralytic stroke.

San Francisco General Strike Laid to Bridges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Harper Knowles, California legislator, told House investigators today an organization headed by Harry Bridges, California leader, began agitation which "brought about the San Francisco general strike in 1933 and caused chaos to the maritime industry."

Further, he testified, Dr. Louis Bloch, a member of the maritime labor board, was at one time a member of the professional unit of the Communist party in California.

Knowles, chairman of the radical research committee of the California American Legion, said Bridges was a Communist, and that the organization, the "Equality Hall Group," numbered many Communists among its members.

Bridges is an Australian against whom deportation proceedings are pending.

Knowles contended that as early as 1922, Bridges had entered the Riggers and Stevedores Union and tried to gather about him "a group of radical progressives."

Two years later, he said, Bridges and a few others organized a longshoremen's local union, which quickly disintegrated.

"This group continued to agitate along the waterfront until 1932," the witness said, "when they decided to again attempt to organize another longshoremen's local."

In order to do this, he said, a group was chosen to meet at Equity Hall in San Francisco. Not all of this nucleus, which later brought on the general San Francisco strike, was Communist, Knowles said, but those who were unwilling to go along were "quickly eliminated."

Knowles said the Legion's radical research committee contended that evidence it had obtained, as well as Communist publications, had proved that:

The equality hall group "commenced the agitation that brought about the San Francisco general strike and chaos to the maritime industry;" that it did its agitation by means of a Communist publication; and that it was headed by Bridges.

NAMES 3 SLUGGERS

Knowles named Earl King, Randolph Merriweather and Jack Dalton as radical leaders who "provided a bunch of sluggers that had no limits in devility."

"These men," he said, "were always available to be sent away to do some job of intimidation and violence. A berth on shipboard was always ready for any of these men to make a getaway after they had committed some crime. It was this group that threatened and intimidated engineers and non-licensed personnel who refused to join the union."

Injury Delays Hub Bank Suit

Injuries suffered in a fall some time ago have delayed Auditor F. Delano Putnam's report on charges a Boston bank switched an $800,000 policy from one insurance company to another to enable James Roosevelt, son of the President, to get the commission, the Boston Evening American learned today.

Putnam has just returned to his Brimmer st. home after being in the hospital with a fractured kneecap. He said it would be some time before his final report was completed and refused to comment on whether his draft, or preliminary report, was ready.

The charge against the bank was made last July by counsel for Arthur D. Cronin, Natick insurance man, who seeks $31,750 plus interest in a suit against the bank.

BLIZZARD IN MID-WEST

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (INS)—Sweeping down from the north, a blizzard left many highways blocked and communications disrupted in parts of Wisconsin and Minnesota today.

Ex-Marine Returns Boy As Kidnap Hunt Starts

FLORAL PARK, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—Three-year-old Dean Tripp, son of wealthy William D. Tripp, today was returned to his home by George O'Connell, ex-marine, with whom he disappeared Saturday.

O'Connell, who was placed under arrest as he stepped from a train at the Floral Park station of the Long Island Railroad, was not booked immediately and the charge was not learned.

Federal agents had been called into the case Sunday night when O'Connell, who had been befriended by Tripp, failed to return with Dean. Today a government man answered a phone call at the Tripp home shortly before 8 a. m.

O'Connell was speaking "Til be in on the 8:31 train," he said.

Police Chief James Humphreys and FBI agents, together with Mrs. Tripp, went to the station.

The child, freshly bathed and neatly dressed, was in the arms of O'Connell.

O'Connell said he and the child had spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Goden, Kew Gardens, Long Island, friends of the Tripps.

He said he had tried to phone the Tripps Sunday afternoon but received no answer. Mrs. Tripp told police the family had been absent for a time Sunday afternoon.

Hurley, Kelly, Russell Lashed For Absence at Democrat Dinner

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Three powerful Democratic leaders today administered a verbal spanking to Governor Hurley, Lieutenant-Governor Kelly and former Congressman Richard M. Russell for failing to attend the Democratic state committee harmony banquet at the Copley Plaza last night.

The trio were former Governor James M. Curley, Congressman John W. McCormack, dean of the Massachusetts delegation of the Democrats at Washington in the House, and Attorney General Paul A. Dever, whose vote in 1936 adjudged him the biggest Democratic vote-getter in the state.

Curley was the strongest of the trio. At the same time, however, he opened his arms to supporters of the three he defeated in the primary by promising "no reprisals on Beacon Hill, whether they were against or for Curley."

The former governor, now heading the Democratic ticket as nominee for a second term, had the unqualified endorsement of the national administration formally delivered to him by Postmaster-General James A. Farley when he struck out at those "who might have a little bitterness."

LEFT NO DOUBT

Curley did not name the present governor and lieutenant-governor nor Russell, but he left no doubt in the minds of the eight hundred odd that attended the banquet when he said:

"I can well appreciate the feeling on the part of an individual upon his failure to succeed in accomplishing that to which he has set his life."

"I can likewise appreciate that a little bitterness might permeate his system and that it might induce him to get the impression that his personal feelings were paramount over every other consideration."

"I regard the Democratic party as paramount to the individual ambition of any individual and I regard the issues of this campaign as transcending the Democratic party."

"It is no time for any man who calls himself a Democrat to stand upon the side lines, whatever he thinks of Curley and the rest of the state ticket."

FITZGERALD SINGS

Shortly before his statement, Curley had shaken hands at the head table with former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, who had been a bitter political enemy of Curley as far back as a generation ago. The handshake took place after Fitzgerald had rendered his favorite "Sweet Adeline."

Postmaster-General Farley ad libbed a bit away from his prepared speech to further urge the election of Curley and the rest of the Democratic ticket.

After he had pictured Curley in his prepared speech as one who never wavered in his support of the Roosevelt program, although he had faced criticism and abuse, the President's right hand man added:

"I want every person interested in the continuation of the Roosevelt policies to vote for Jim Curley and every other one of the Democratic nominees."

Farley's theme was for a Democratic sweep in Massachusetts as an aid in the continuance of the

Grid Fan Kicks Self Into Jail

Thomas Dougal, 20, of West Neptune street, Lynn, is a rabid football fan but he won't be able to see any games for the remainder of the season.

In Lynn court today Reserve Officer Thomas O'Neill said he grabbed Dougal by the legs as the latter was attempting to evade paying admission by climbing over the Lynn Stadium wall last Saturday.

With his free foot, Dougal is alleged to have kicked O'Neill in the face and on that charge the youth received a sentence of 30 days in jail.

Judge Ralph W. Reeves also revoked a suspended sentence to Shirley School hanging over Dougal's head and ordered it be served after completion of the 30-day jail term.

'Jail' Saves Montgomerys

NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 24 (INS)—Scores of students at Connecticut College for Women today proudly displayed autographs of Actor Robert Montgomery and his wife, Elisabeth.

The actor and his wife, however, somewhere in New York had added to their worldly experience by spending two hours in the railroad police lockup to avoid a thousand autograph seekers.

The Montgomerys were met at the gang plank as they returned on the steamer Islander after attending a dog meet at Fisher's Island. As the girl autograph seekers began elbowing their way to the actor, a call went out to police, who formed a flying wedge and rescued him.

They took him into the nearby railroad station, but when that became crowded they put him in a lockup.

The police then found his wife attempting to satisfy the demands for her signature. Her hat was off, her hair disheveled, and the Montgomery luggage was strewn about. She was rescued and joined her husband in the lockup.

Tries to Wreck Car; No Such Luck!

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 24 (AP)—Carl E. Hoelzel tried to wreck his auto. Once he thought he had promoted a first rate collision, but the other driver was too alert. Hoelzel was just trying to get rid of a couple of bandits who had chased in with him. When he failed to crash his car they beat him and robbed him of $500.

Parkman Seeks Democratic Vote

Can the lion and the lamb lie down together?

Independent Democrats today were considering the plea of Corporation Counsel Henry Parkman that they vote for Leverett Saltonstall for governor.

He pointed out that thousands of independent Republicans voted for Maurice J. Tobin for mayor.

Admittedly, most Democrats were considering the appeal in a humorous light. Parkman said:

"Vote for the straight dealing and honest government for which Leverett Saltonstall stands. Vote against the devious, tortuous and false methods which his adversary represents."

He referred to James M. Curley by name and as follows:

"The man who in a single term dragged the respected name of Massachusetts to the lowest depths in history."

Speaking of the indorsement of Curley by Postmaster-General Farley, he declared:

"Farley is a good soldier and is doing his party duty, going down the line for Democratic candidates."

"After all, however, Jim Farley doesn't come from Massachusetts, and I think it's fair to doubt whether he cares as much what happens to us and our government as we do."

Boy Eye Victim Given New Hope

New hope for the life of Jimmie Malool, 16-month-old sufferer from the eye-malady glionia, was given his parents by City Hospital doctors today.

Specialists who removed the baby's infected right eye declared that the tumorous growth in the left eye has not spread since the operation. They also disclosed that a feared spread of infection to the child's brain has not occurred.

Funny Thing, Funnies

FALO ALTO, Cal., Oct. 24 (INS)

If you and your intended mate both like the funny papers, you'll probably have a happy married life.

That's one of the conclusions of Dr. Lewis M. Terman, famed Stanford psychologist and "Intelligence test" pioneer, in a new book.

Following widespread questionnaire research, Dr. Terman looks to the time when marital happiness will be predictable on a basis similar to present scholarship predictions from intelligence tests.

New Film Star Weds Director

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24 (INS)—Margaret Tallichet, protegee of Carole Lombard, and the first girl picked to play a part in "Gone With the Wind," and William Wyler, well-known director, and former husband of Margaret Sullivan, were married yesterday afternoon at Running Springs, Cal.

A little less than a week ago the report came to us that this film pair was considering matrimony. Both denied strongly there was any intention of marriage, but today, at the mountain home of Walter Huston, Miss Tallichet became the bride of the well-known director.

The vows were said in the presence of a few friends, including Paul Kohner, John Huston, son of Walter, who acted as best man, and Wyler's parents.

SHE WAS STENOGRAPHER

Few girls in Hollywood have had more publicity without even having actually made a picture than Miss Tallichet.

A stenographer of unusual beauty, she was brought to the attention of David Selznick by Carole Lombard. She was given a test, immediately signed and sent east to learn her craft in stock companies. So well did she succeed that Selznick chose her to play Scarlett O'Hara's younger sister.

MADE FAMOUS PICTURES

Wyler is one of our best known directors, having made "Jezebel," "Dodsworth," "These Three" and other important pictures.

One of the most eccentric of directors, he also is conceded to be among the best.

Lawyer Fined For Joy-Ride

Alleged to have celebrated the Harvard-Brown football game on Oct. 1 by a joy-ride through Brighton in a "borrowed" telephone repair truck, George Lawrence Black, 34, described by police as a Harvard graduate and Boston lawyer, was fined $100 in Brighton district court today.

He was found guilty of drunken driving, using a motor vehicle without authorization and leaving the scene of an accident after causing damage.

Patrolman Michael J. Cullinane testified Black admitted taking the truck from Franklin street, Allston. Black had a piece of the Harvard goal post under his arm. The truck collided with a Rhode Island auto at Market street and Spahnaw street, Brighton.

Seize French Pool Tickets

The long arm of Uncle Sam today ended dreams of more easy money for a number of Greater Boston residents when postal inspectors seized 500 French National Lottery tickets addressed to persons in this area.

According to literature which accompanied the tickets, the lottery has been "organized and guaranteed" by the French government and "recommended" by the French Ministry of Finance.

Mental Posts Go To Brown, Coyne

Representatives William A. Brown and Francis X. Coyne of Boston were appointed by Governor Hurley today to succeed Rev. Otis F. Kelly of Brookline and Dr. J. Vernon Briggs of Boston as members of the special commission on mental diseases.

Father Kelly and Dr. Briggs resigned in protest against the appointment of Dr. Clifton T. Perkins as commissioner of mental health. Both Representatives Brown and Coyne are members of the Legislative Committee on Public Welfare.

Downpour Cuts Woods Fire Peril; Warn of Storm

Heavy rain today throughout New England and prospect of further downpour tonight and tomorrow put an end, temporarily at least, to the forest fire menace in woodlands devastated by the hurricane.

Schools were closed in more than a score of Greater Boston communities. Regular school sessions were held in Boston proper, however.

Fog grounded all airlines and hampered coastwise shipping. Southeast storm warnings were hoisted from Eastport to Sandy Hook.

GALE ON WAY

Winds reaching gale force were predicted for tonight in the seaboard area centering at Boston.

New Hampshire's statewide ban on hunting and fishing was lifted at noon today by Governor Murphy on recommendation of forestry officials and Fish and Game Commissioner Robert H. Stobie.

In Massachusetts, however, Commissioner of Conservation Ernest J. Dean said he would urge the woods be kept closed for another week.

SAFEGUARDING THE CCC

Safety of CCC boys and other workers in forests cleaning up hurricane debris might be threatened if gunners were allowed to go afield, Dean said.

From Vermont and Maine, where woods have had previously been lifted, come reports that rains were giving additional and welcome margin of safety against forest fires.

General weather forecast was for rain tonight and tomorrow morning, followed by clearing skies and lower temperatures.

Thebaud Leads In Nip-and-Tuck Schooner Race

ABOARD SCHOONER GERTRUDE L. THEBAUD, OFF BOSTON (via radio telephone, Oct. 24 (AP))—The Gertrude L. Thebaud, American challenger for the international fishermen's trophy, wrested the lead from the Canadian defender Bluenose today, after trailing by four lengths at the first turn in the fourth race of their series.

The challenger showed surprising speed in working to windward when they first tacked and Bluenose fell about four lengths under Thebaud, an hour and 10 minutes after the race started.

DECKS AWASH

It was real fisherman's weather with decks awash and with spray flying from one end to the other aboard the competing vessels.

Bluenose rounded the buoy off Newcomb's Ledge, nine miles from the starting line, at 10:46:39 a. m. and Thebaud followed at 10:47:05. The vessels then began the 12-mile beat to windward.

A brisk southeasterly wind pushed the schooners along. Thebaud was first across the starting line because Bluenose, well to windward, soon took the lead. The Canadian leads in the series, two to one.

Several times members of Thebaud's crew were knee deep, and once neck deep, in water as they worked the lee rigging. Visibility was very poor, furnishing a difficult task in finding the next mark.

BREEZE DIES OUT

At one o'clock Thebaud was leading Bluenose by approximately ten lengths. The breeze had faded out to such an extent that there was doubt the race could be finished within the six hour time limit.

What Thebaud's crew said about the weather was unprintable.

NRA Foe Will Again Defy U. S.

YORK, Pa., Oct. 24 (AP)—Fred C. Perkins, battery firm owner who was jailed briefly in 1933 on a charge of violating the National Recovery Act, thumbed his nose today at the new federal wage-hour law, effective last midnight.

"I cannot afford to abide by it," he said, in a statement to the Gazette and Daily, "and I defy them to enforce it."

"If they attempt to crush me, I will do my level best to put their impractical notions to the acid test of public opinion in every hamlet in America."

Perkins was prosecuted for NRA violations during the "crack down" days of General Hugh S. Johnson, first recovery administrator. He spent a short time in jail here before being released under bond.

A federal court jury in Harrisburg later found him guilty. He appealed to a higher court, but before the appeal was heard the U. S. Supreme Court ruled NRA unconstitutional.

Bandits Lock 2 in Ice Box, Flee With $415

Two youthful armed bandits held up the proprietor of a grocery store in Hayes square, Charlestown, just after he opened for business today and escaped with $415, his Saturday receipts. Joseph Lapen, 26, of Bunker Hill street, owner of the Vine street store, told police he was talking with a customer, John Rogge, of Broadway, Somerville, when the first bandit entered at 7:13 a. m.

Excited and nervous, the bandit drew a gun, told them it was a holdup and waved them toward a refrigerator in the rear.

A few seconds later the second bandit entered, and Lapen and Rogge were forced into the refrigerator, which the holdup pair then locked.

Before being locked in the refrigerator Lapen was robbed of $350 which he was carrying in his pocket. Also taken was $15 from a cash register, including $6 in pennies.

Lapen described the bandits as being each about 25 years of age, of medium build and of dark complexion.

U. S. Sees Way To Tax State Pay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Justice Department experts think they have found a method to impose income taxes on now-exempt securities and on public officeholders without any constitutional amendments. The proposal may be submitted to the next Congress, along with suggestions by a special senate committee for eliminating some existing tax exemptions.

The Justice Department plan, informed persons said today, calls for imposition of federal income taxes on salaries of state employees and on the income from state securities. It also involves a declaration by Congress that the federal government waived its constitutional exemption from state taxation of its securities and salaries. States then would be free to tax federal workers and the owners of federal securities.

President Roosevelt has expressed the opinion that only a federal statute is needed to eliminate such exemptions.

Japs Delay U.S. Liner; Bomb British Gunboat

SHANGHAI, Oct. 24 (INS)—In the midst of widespread Japanese triumphs today, an incident involving the United States was narrowly averted when Nipponese authorities successfully prevented shipment of $4,500,000 in silver to America.

Although the light cruiser Augusta stood ready to escort the Dulgar Liner President Coolidge to sea with her cargo of silver, officials of the line decided to unload the metal rather than risk further expensive delay.

Grave fears were felt on all sides, however, that a fresh "Panay incident," this time involving the British river gunboat Sandpiper, would be less easily settled.

Six heavy Japanese bombers peppered the water around the Sandpiper, spraying her decks with shrapnel, and scored at least one direct hit.

The 185-ton river boat's superstructure was badly damaged, but no one was hurt.

BRITISH IN PROTEST

The bombing occurred near Changsha, capital of Hunan province, 200 miles south of Hankow, where the Sandpiper was on patrol duty.

British authorities, expressing their belief that the bombing was intentional, protested vigorously.

On the other hand, Japanese sources said the planes were attempting to bomb Chinese junks filled with troops when the gunboat was hit.

Japanese authorities promptly expressed regret over the affair.

Chinese newspapers also said Japanese bombers sank the refugee-filled river boat Kongsin 110 miles south of Hankow with loss of 1000 passengers.

The Luzon and Guam, United States gunboats, stood by at Hankow, and the Mindanao was still anchored at Canton.

As the Chinese defenders fled in confusion to the west and south, the Japanese lost no time in carrying out their threats to bombard Hankow and her sister cities of the great industrial trio, Wuchang and Wuhang.

CHINESE IN RETREAT

The debacle at Canton and the swift advance against Hankow again led to reports that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek would resign, and that peace was imminent. Latest reports said the Chinese armies on the north and south banks of the Yangtze have abandoned their positions and are now in general retreat to the south-west.

Huge Fires Threaten To Level Canton

CANTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—A gigantic conflagration threatened to destroy this South China metropolis today as fires roared into residential districts after burning out the business sections.

Japanese dynamite squads blasted firebreaks around the burning areas in an attempt to halt the spreading flames, while foreign volunteers added in trying to save foreign buildings.

Small fires broke out in the international settlement on Shameen Island, but were quickly extinguished. A shift of the wind carried the flames away from the island after a mile of waterfront buildings had been destroyed.

The United States consulate-general suffered slight damage, plaster falling from ceilings due to the concussion when three munitions dumps were blown up. There were no casualties. The Dutch consulate was similarly shaken.

The Saichuen and Honam districts of the city were the worst damaged. Buildings destroyed included the ministry of finance, provincial municipal headquarters, a Buddhist temple, several hotels and the post office.

The total damage was unofficially estimated as $10,000,000. The fires drove from hiding thousands of poorer Chinese, the only remnants of a population of 2,000,000 living in the metropolitan area a short time ago.

Thousands of panic-stricken Chinese still were fleeing in river junks and other thousands, unable to board the overcrowded vessels, huddled in terror opposite the international settlement.

A tremendous naval armada was reported forcing its way up the river. It was reported 150 vessels were participating in the drive.

Only one Chinese soldier was seen in Canton. He was a prisoner, peacefully eating rice among the enemy troops with his face swathed in bandages.

British Envoy Sails On "Peace" Mission

HONGKONG, Oct. 24 (INS)—Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British ambassador, today sailed aboard the destroyer Daring for Haiphong, French Indo-China, whence he will fly to Yunnan.

His trip was linked to persistent reports that he will confer with Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek regarding possible peace terms.

Hungary Ready To Cross Frontier

BUDAPEST, Oct. 24 (AP)—An intense wave of patriotism today swept Hungary, waiting for an early showdown in her territorial dispute with Czechoslovakia.

Unless Czechoslovakia accepts Hungary's demands for Hungarian-populated areas by Wednesday, well-informed quarters said, an army of almost 500,000 men is prepared to cross the frontier.

The Prague government has submitted five proposals to Hungary for settlement of the nationalities issue, none of which has been acceptable.

The nation, meanwhile, was whipping its forces into peak efficiency. The numbers of soldiers and officers appearing on Budapest streets constantly was increasing and the training of hunkled recruits was progressing rapidly.

Fair Sales Law Ruled Illegal in N. J.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Oct. 24 (AP)—The State Fair Sales Act, which provides in part "that the advertised offer for sale or sale of any merchandise at less than cost by retailers is prohibited," was held unconstitutional today by Judge Berthold Vorsanger in Bergen County District Court. The law became effective several months ago.

Ruling in a test case brought in behalf of the Retail Grocers' Association against a local store, Judge Vorsanger said:

"I think it is safe to say that the most enlightened judicial policy is to let the people manage their business in their own way. Although the fair sales act might help a few selfish interests it would be detrimental to the public as a whole.

"The buying public would be forced to purchase articles at higher prices, increasing the cost of living.

"The legislation fixing prices must be directed to articles which are affected with a public interest and not take away the common law rights of the people."

The litigants had agreed at the outset that Judge Vorsanger's opinion would be appealed to the state supreme court.

A Massachusetts sales price law similar in purport recently became effective. No court test has followed here as yet, although some small dealers are reported to have ignored the law's provisions.

Rescue Fails, 3 Die in Fire

WINSLOW MILLS, Me., Oct. 24—With rakes and plaster hooks firemen today recovered from the ruins of a combination garage and home the bodies of a hero and those he vainly sacrificed his own life to save—his wife and baby.

The hero was Charles Frank, 35, a married man, wife and three children.

The three were killed by death in the fire, which was caused by a fire in the garage, owned by Mr. Frank, a farmer, and his wife, Mrs. Frank, a farmer's wife.

FIRE WITNESS STORY

Frank, according to the witnesses, was rescued by the firemen, but his wife and baby were not.

THE LADDER FALLS

The ladder fell away from the building as he vanished within the second floor window.

A few seconds later he reappeared against a background of flame and smoke with what appeared to be the form of his wife and baby—under each arm.

In the meantime, however, the heat of the flames had driven a of the neighbors from the side of the burning building, and when Frank, with his wife and baby, his arms reached the window according to witnesses.

Where is the ladder? For Frank's sake, put that ladder back! They were unable to help him.

The next instant the burned witnesses saw Frank, his wife and baby vanish behind a wall of flame. Frank was seen to fall from the fire, but the ladder had a ready hand to the ground to see they could run a line from a nearby post.

Budget Parley Roosevelt Aim

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt arranged today to parley with Washington for budget conference after WPA director Harry L. Hopkins, his guest here for a week had predicted less money would be needed for relief next year.

The President's special was scheduled to leave in mid-afternoon and arrive in the Capital tonight. Department budget conferences will begin tomorrow.

When asked about new relief appropriations, Hopkins said he did not know what amount would be asked for next year, but added it "will undoubtedly be a figure related to a smaller WPA than we have now."

3 Rumanian Pilots Drown in Crash

BUCHAREST, Oct. 24 (AP)—Three officers were drowned today when a seaplane of the Rumanian navy's Constanta squadron crashed in the Black Sea near Juridika. A fourth man swam ashore.

The plane, which had gone out to investigate the sinking of a ship with two men aboard, fell against the same spot as the first plane.

Saboteurs Wreck Train, 15 Injured

MONTREY, Ill., Oct. 24 (AP)—A road official said today that the wreck of a Chicago & Northwestern passenger train here last night apparently was deliberate.

Fifteen persons were injured, including the engineer, when the passenger train was derailed about midnight. The cause of the wreck was not known.

Choice of Cardozo Successor Delayed

Hub Pawnshops Searched For Gem Cursed with Death

Pawnshops and the haunts of known fences were scoured by police today in a hunt for an Egyptian scarab that has meant sudden death to three owners since 1921.

It was stolen from the home of J. H. McKee in Fort Chester, N. Y., by a burglar who apparently did not know its history.

This superstition connected with the gem, which is a scarab beetle, is said to have more basis than most such superstitions.

It was found by an English mining engineer who died suddenly and mysteriously. Two railway officials owned it and died.

The Fort Chester owner could not bear the thought of giving it away, but kept it hidden and made the servants promise not to take it out of its hiding place.

Police reason that the burglar won't dare try to dispose of the stone in New York, and Boston is the next logical market.

Wage, Hour Law In a Nutshell

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (INS)—A simplified explanation of the provisions, exemptions and coverage of the wage-hour act follows:

GENERAL COVERAGE

All workers engaged in producing, manufacturing, mining, handling, transporting or in any manner working on goods moving in interstate commerce.

Employees engaged in any process necessary to production of such goods.

Employees engaged in interstate transportation, transmission or communication that does not come under operation of the Interstate Commerce Commission laws.

WAGES AND HOURS

The work-week for which regular wages must be paid shall be limited to 44 hours from today until a year hence; for another year to 42 hours and after October 24, 1940, to 40 hours. For all work above the specified regular limit, time-and-a-half wages must be paid.

Wages cannot be less than 25 cents an hour from today until October 24, 1939; from that date until October 24, 1940, they shall not be less than 30 cents, and after October 24, 1940, they shall not be less than 40 cents an hour.

However, industry committees, the administration agreeing, may fix wages above the 25 cents minimum and not above the 40 cents an hour top, at any time it is determined such wages do not substantially curtail employment.

EXEMPTIONS FROM BOTH PROVISIONS

1—Agricultural workers, seamen and employees of airlines, street cars, motor buses, messengers, waiters and employees of weekly or semi-weekly newspapers with a circulation of less than 3000, the major part of which is in the country of publication.

2—Persons employed in bona fide executive, administrative, professional, or local retailing capacity or as outside salesmen.

3—Persons employed in any retail or service establishment, the greater part of whose selling is in interstate commerce.

4—Persons employed in the fishing industry.

5—Persons employed in the area of production to handle or prepare, or can agricultural or horticultural commodities for market or to make dairy products.

EXEMPTIONS FROM HOUR PROVISIONS ONLY

1—Employees of transportation agencies regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

2—First processors of milk, when skimmed milk or cream into daily products; cotton ginning and compressing, cottonseed processing, processing of sugar beets and sugar beet molasses, sugar cane or maple syrup.

PARTIAL HOUR EXEMPTIONS

1—Employees in industries designated as seasonal may work up to 12 hours a day or 36 hours a week for not more than 14 weeks a year.

2—Employees are exempt from all maximum hour provisions for 14 weeks a year if engaged in first processing, canning or packing of fresh fruits and vegetables, or if within the area of production nearly locality plants employing not more than seven workers) during seasonal operations, or in dressing poultry or slaughtering livestock.

3—Employees working under a national labor relations board-recognized agreement providing a maximum of 1600 hours works in 26 weeks or 2000 hours in 52 weeks.

OTHER EXEMPTIONS

Other exemptions:

1—Learners, apprentices and handicapped workers may be so classified under various categories by the administrator, and individual certificates may be issued for a wage lower than that for regular workers.

CHILD LABOR PROVISIONS

Child labor provisions:

1—Children under 16 may not be employed in interstate commerce in any occupation except for employment of children of 14 or 15 years at work other than manufacturing or mining, which has been determined by the U. S. Children's Bureau not to interfere with schooling, health or well-being.

2—Children 16 and 17 years old may not be employed in any occupation declared by the administrator for particularly hazardous or detrimental to health.

3—Child actors may be employed in motion pictures or theatrical productions.

4—Children under 16 may be employed by their parents or guardian in non-manufacturing and non-mining occupations.

5—Children may be employed in agriculture while they are not legally required to attend school.

Governors Aid in Enforcing Law

making certain that interstate industries subject to the law keep proper records showing compliance.

He also requested them to send representatives to a conference of state labor officials here November 14 to discuss state wage-hour laws.

A. F. OF L. HELPS

Pledges of enforcement aid came, among others, from the governors of Alabama, Iowa, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana, Utah and Nevada.

The administrator also was advised that the American Federation of Labor's central labor bodies in more than 500 cities would help enforce the act by reporting violations.

The new law, applying to virtually all workers in interstate commerce, represented the broadest industrial legislation since the NRA.

In striking contrast to the fanfare and hubbub of the Blue Eagle days, however, the Wage-Hour law was put into operation quietly. There were no parades, no great concentration of business men in Washington.

Administrator Elmer F. Andrews took time from cleaning up a multitude of details to tell a nationwide radio audience that the new program was not designed to "bound business," but should become a pillar of a sound economic system.

"Its purpose is to protect decent employers against the ruthless competitors whose only weapon is low prices based upon low wages and long hours for those who produce their goods.

"Its further purpose is to assure a steady stream of purchasing power in this country."

FATTENS ENVELOPES

The immediate effect of the law was to clip a few hours from the work week of about 1,500,000 men and women and to fatten the pay envelopes of 750,000.

Although Andrews said large groups of employers had offered their wholehearted co-operation, it was generally expected there would be many court tests of the legislation.

Officials said the child labor ban, for example, was much the same as a 1916 law which the Supreme Court invalidated.

The law provides a $10,000 fine, six months' imprisonment, or both, for infractions. In addition, employers may recover twice the amount of the wages denied them under the approved schedule.

WARNING ON SUITS

Andrews warned employers against "ill-considered suits." He expressed confidence that the statutory minimum wage would not become the prevailing maximum pay, but instead would lead to a general rise in wage levels.

He announced that enforcement would rest largely in the hands of business men themselves.

The law authorizes creation of industry committees which may recommend higher wage rates than the statute provides. If they do not curtail employment, Andrews may approve them.

Jewish Charity Drive Is Begun

Declaring that the needs of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies are far greater this year than ever before, Louis E. Kirstein, president of the organization, today launched the 1938-39 campaign.

A city-wide canvass was inaugurated today, with more than 100 volunteer workers pledged to make house-to-house calls in their own neighborhoods throughout the city.

Addressing the workers at a luncheon at the Hotel Statler, President Kirstein said that the drive is a year ago of the year drive to be a success.

"Regardless of what happens elsewhere, it is incumbent upon us as Americans to exhibit the high quality of our citizenship and to work for the advancement of humanity," he said.

"We Jews are consecrated to the ideals of generosity, of compassion, of tolerance, of humanitarianism. We are safe in the United States if we can be guaranteed administrations such as we have at the present."

He called for a "cavalry" of wealthy Jews who, like their less wealthy brethren, are also interested in the welfare of the Jewish people.

Cambridge Chairman Broder, E. Grinstein, announced that the first reports of the drive would be made at a luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce at noon tomorrow.

Nazis Accuse Pope of 'Hate'

BERLIN, Oct. 24 (INS)—Pope Pius today was accused of "blind hatred" in a counter-attack by Theodor Angerer, a prominent anti-Nazi newspaper editor.

"Who called on Christ's vicar to charge Germany with political intentions through the methods of Jewish war-makery?" Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' newspaper asked.

The paper said that Pope Pius, in a letter to the Reichstag, had accused the German government of "blind hatred" against the Jewish people.

Your tired nerves need frequent relief

SCOTTIE

Known variously in early Scottish history as Skye terrier, Highland, Cairn, and Scots terrier, although that dog bore no resemblance to Skyes and Cairns of today. Nicknamed the "die-hard" for stout heart and unquenchable love for sport. Extremely independent.

HE'S GIVING HIS NERVES A REST...

AND SO IS HE

LIKE humans, dogs have a complicated set of nerves. But dogs are kinder to their nerves than we. They rest when they need rest...we plunge ahead with hurry and worry—straining our nerves to keep up the fast pace. We can't turn back to the natural paces of life like an animal, but we can protect, soothe, and calm our nerves. Smoking a Camel can be your pleasant method for breaking nerve tension. Camels are mild, with the flavor of a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos. Smokers find Camel's mild tobaccos delightfully soothing—soothing—to the nerves.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE ADVISE

"Let up—light up a Camel"

INCA GOLD WAS THE LURE that led Capt. E. Friskine Loch deep into the grim Andes. "Bucking steaming jungles and dizzy peaks means terrific strain on the nerves," he says. "My standing rule is to let up and light up a Camel often through the day. I find a pause with a Camel never fails to soothe my nerves."

DID YOU KNOW?

—that tobacco plants are "tossed" when they put out their seed-head. That toss imparts the quality of leaf tobacco? That most cigarette tobacco is harvested by "priming"—removing each leaf by hand? Camel buyers know where choice grades of tobacco are—those that cure nicely—the mild, ripe tobacco. Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS... Turkish and Domestic.

"HOUSEWORK, shopping, and social affairs," says busy Mrs. V. G. Weaver, "would get me strained and tense if I didn't rest my nerves every now and then. I let up and light up a Camel frequently. Camels are so restful—so soothing to the nerves."

'Love Killer' Fires Warning

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (INS)—Using another bullet, the killer of beautiful Mrs. Mary Devuono was suspected today of having issued a grim warning to her family against involving him in the mysterious case.

Family See Player Kill Self

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 24 (The Autumn leaves were tumbling down on the life of Nelson C. Dowd to day, and he took the quick way out.

Dowd, a saxophonist who really could make his instrument moan out the notes of that once popular ballad, "When the Autumn Leaves Come Tumbling Down," when he played for Mal Hallett, famed Boston band leader, shot himself to death in his home.

With a flare for showmanship, Dowd made his suicide dramatic in the extreme.

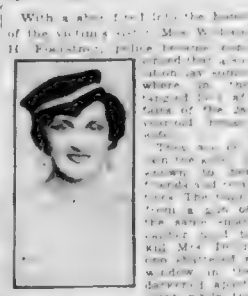

Apparently in the best of spirit, but known to have been in ill health, Dowd walked into the dining room of his home from a bedroom and greeted his wife, his mother, Mrs. Phoebe Dowd, and his sister Constantine and her boy friend, Kenneth DeLoria.

Refusing an invitation to join them at dinner, Dowd took from his pocket a crumpled note which he tossed toward his wife. It dropped into her lap like a tumbling autumn leaf.

Then, before his wife could read the note, he drew a pistol from his pocket, pressed it to his head and pulled the trigger.

The report echoed through the room. Dowd fell dead. The gun spun across the room into a corner. Streams of the panic-stricken women brought neighbors rushing to the scene.

Police officials, after investigation, declared Dowd had ended his life while depressed over the fact his ill health would prevent him to return to his band work.

Mary Devuono, out last evening. Mrs. Devuono was slain Saturday afternoon in the apartment she shared with her husband, Nelson C. Dowd. He found the body dead in the crowded lounge room where he returned for dinner from his band rehearsal.

The couple had celebrated their wedding anniversary on two days before. After a long marriage, life in which they had separated several times, and Mrs. Dowd, it was said, so loved Dowd, she became a nervous wreck.

Two of her friends, Mrs. R. M. and Mrs. J. M., who were with her at the time of the shooting, said they had heard Dowd threaten to shoot himself.

Two days before the shooting, some of the neighbors were told that Dowd was planning to shoot himself. Mrs. Dowd, it was said, was very nervous.

SHOT IN EMBRACE

The killing occurred as Dowd sat with his head in his hands, weeping, as a dark shadow loomed over him. The gun, it was said, was in the drawer. Dowd, it was said, had been drinking heavily.

Neighbors, it was said, had seen Dowd in a state of distress. The neighbors, it was said, had seen Dowd in a state of distress.

A LIFE SENTENCE

The Editor Says: Discussing the crushing burden of the SPEND-THRIFT GOVERNMENT on the generations of Americans, President Roosevelt recently said:

"The burden is to be a MILLSTONE AROUND YOUR NECK and a LEGACY OF LIABILITY to your children and grandchildren."

That is what we are asked to have. THE RIGHT TO MORTGAGE THE FUTURE OF THE UNBORN.

It is a burden which has been given to what is called the SPEND-THRIFT GOVERNMENT to carry the burdens of debt which are being piled on.

We are asked to pay for it. PAY. They are asking for it and imposing FINED CHARGES if we do not pay. We have, and probably a great deal more, than we can pay. We are bigger with more people and more money.

But in what way are we going to have this monstrous MILLSTONE OF OLD DEBTS on their necks.

THE $530 PER FAMILY we are now spending every year for Federal, State and local government is not merely OUR BURDEN.

The present national debt of forty billion dollars is not OURS TO PAY, for none of us who are responsible for that debt will live long enough to ever start the wealth to pay off more than a fraction of it.

We are passing this along to POSTERITY. We are creating a LEGACY OF LIABILITY not only for the young men of College University, but for all young men and women of America and THEIR CHILDREN'S CHILDREN.

No other generation of Americans, before this, has ever borrowed so recklessly against the future of the country.

No other generation of Americans has ever before inherited such a BURDEN OF DEBT AND TAXES as we are creating for our children.

We are proud of OUR predecessors in America, and respect them for the constructive and patriotic manner in which they have built up the institutions of our country along to US.

But we thank OUR SUCCESSORS are going to be proud of us, and we respect and honor us for passing along to them a MORTGAGED FUTURE.

HALLOWE'EN PARTIES for Boston children will be given in fifteen of the city's police stations. The plan, similar to those recently announced by Webster, results from Police Commissioner Timine's desire to prevent a repetition of last year's damage to property.

Girls and boys who attend the parties will duck for apples, eat orange and nut candy, compete for costume prizes, enjoy vaudeville programs and play the "witch and goblin" games of the season.

Children and families asks merchants and civic-minded citizens to help the work in making the programs so good that wandering about the streets will not be attractive to children.

It is a fair request and one who can should help. When damage to property is concerned, an ounce of prevention is indeed worth a pound of cure.

HARD WORK will still bring success, said Professor T. J. J. King, president of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, in a recent address at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"For today the diligent and industrious men will get their just reward," he declared, "and there is no pinnacle to the success that cannot be achieved."

Better or sounder advice could not be given young men and young women now attending college.

The Human Side of the News

The Pressure Group Menace

By EDWIN C. HILL

PROBABLY the most disruptive and menacing political force in our national life today is the pressure group.

In point, and in the news, is the political alliance of 500,000 Polish citizens of New York State, with holding their allegiance from the Democratic state ticket because so few Polish Americans have received state or federal jobs.

The assumption that patronage should be dealt with regard to any particular national antecedents, or group voting power, is, of course, subversive of the basic integrity and democratic aspiration of our government.

The melting pot ought to do a better job of melting.

In my view, much of our failure really to fuse all groups in the traditional American way of life is due to our own venal politicians, some of them possibly of Middle-Eastern ancestry.

It is they and some others who have fanned up the pressure groups, economic, religious and ethnic, and have nationalistic, promising patronage to their leaders, pandering to their desires, and encouraging them to get elected.

I have kept for a long time an unkind postcard statement by the late William Kent, crutch-carrying and hunched Chicagoan and COMMENTATOR EDWIN C. HILL.

"Melting Pot Ought to Do Better Job"

Californian, which seems forever pertinent to the above issue. In 1920, Mr. Kent, a Congressman for several years, was running for the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate in San Francisco.

One of the hyphenated groups of San Francisco began to put strong pressure on Kent.

Kent's manager was worried. "Yes," said Kent, "I think we ought to send them a statement. I'll dictate one, and I want you to send it to them."

THIS is what he dictated: "Gentlemen: You desire a pledge from me as to certain specified actions if I am elected to the United States Senate. I have no hesitation in making a specific pledge. I will employ whatever character and intelligence I have and all diligence and energy of which I am capable, in discharging my duties as United States Senator, under our laws and our Constitution.

"You say you can deliver to me, or withhold from me 10,000 votes. If the above pledge is satisfactory to you, I should like to receive these votes. If it isn't, you can all go to hell."

That might hit you, boss," said Kent's manager.

"Certainly," snapped old Bill Kent. "But be sure to get it out."

Kent was lucky, all right, and died several years later. He had given his life to contending for principles, rather than force. One wonders how many Bill Kents there are in public life today. We seem to need a lot more than we have.

Ban on Laughter? No! No! Not for Us

MR. Joe Turp writes:

BROOKLYN, Oct. 21

Dear Sir: The other night my wife Ethel sees to me Joe do you know what a terrible thing Mussolini has done to poor old Missus Angelo?

I see do you mean old Missus Angelo whose husband Johnny runs the Italian grocery? Ethel sees that is the one I mean. She is one of the most old things in this neighborhood.

I see yes and old Johnny is all right too when he does not get full of that red wine and tries to sing. I see what do you mean Mussolini has done a terrible thing to her?

Ethel sees why he sees she cannot laugh any more at the Ritz and the Marzies. I see do you mean those fellows in the movies? Ethel sees yes they are the ones.

She sees why Joe has would you like it if President Roosevelt made a rule that you could not laugh at anybody in the movies? I see for instance who? I see Ethel President Roosevelt would not have to make a rule to keep me from laughing at some of those guys.

SHE sees yes but what about the Ritzes and the Marzies? I see well I tell you Ethel. I guess I would be plenty sore if President Roosevelt told me I could not laugh at the one in the middle of the Ritzes, or at Groucho Marx and his moustache. She sees well suppose President Roosevelt made a rule that you could not laugh at W. C. Fields?

I see Ethel then I would start a revolution. I see nobody is going to keep me from laughing at W. C. Fields.

I see well Mussolini does not have to tell old Johnny not to laugh at anybody. I see every time I see him in the movies he is sound asleep.

Ethel sees yes and his breath makes his moustache go up and down. I see Ethel baby if your breath was as strong as old Johnny's when he had his load of garbage it would make your hat go up and down. She sees everybody in the theater looks at her and laughs with her. She is awfully cute.

I see O is that so? I see well you did not think it was so cute the night I laughed so hard at W. C. Fields that the manager came down to me and said I would have to stop that noise or get out of there. Ethel sees well he thought you was clowning when you laughed that way.

SHE sees what would they tell you to laugh at to make you stop laughing? I see Ethel lets drop this and I went to bed but I was not asleep before she came in and saw Joe I just finished reading about that order that Mussolini made and it does not go for Italians in this country but only in Italy.

I see that's fine. I see Missus Angelo is all right then is she? Ethel sees yes and I am going to take her to see that new Marxes picture tomorrow night so she can laugh all she wants. I see I would like to see that picture myself Ethel and I will go with you. I see where is it playing? Ethel sees I guess you better not go Joe. It is playing at that theater where the manager sees he never wants to see you again.

Yours truly,

Joe Turp

THE DIRTIEST paper you can pull on a politician is to print what he said 20 years ago as the case is.

THE MEANEST red herring you can drag across a diplomat's doorstep is to stentel in his second childhood the alphabetical stumbling blocks of his first.

THE WORST reminder you can whisper in the cauliflower ear of the dictator are the premature postscripts he autographed when he was a bum 20 years ago. And as you compare those boyish parentheses with his current literary and laryngeal output you realize he is still a bum. Of purest ray serene.

WE REALIZE that every spoonful of alphabetical soup doesn't spell something. And we are hep that every mouthful of political mush is not essentially education. But there isn't a politician in or out of office today who can remember what he stood for 20 years ago.

SOME OF THEM never stood for anything. Not even for an old lady in a skirt case.

When we look through the windows of the biggest Republican club in the world and see the general silhouette of a famous Democrat we know that politicians are opportunists who know enough to come in out of the rain. When the old timers dashed for the Ark it was because they knew Noah didn't own a fleet of coast liners.

Dedham Hunt Thrills All

By BETTY ALDEN

ONE OF SOCIETY'S most picturesque activities, the autumn tree hunt, with pink colored ribbons putting their houses near walls, fences and hedges in pursuit of the hounds, is now in full swing.

This hunt is held at Dedham down in the Myrtle neighborhood where hounds and their waves and laughter thrum nothing of rising at 5:30 for their dinner over the low hills, but out in Dedham most of the dogs are sent to the Saturday afternoon with the hounds waiting up at someone's house for tea and cocktails, and sometimes even a buffet supper.

Last Saturday the powerful pack of Dedham hounds, however, was taken by the stall hunting at home as members of the Dedham Country and Polo Club rode for miles across country.

They started out from the Stock Club and their first check at Dedham Farm and then continued over hills, trees and many a stone wall, ending up near a stone wall, ending up near a stone wall, ending up near a stone wall.

HARVEST SHADES of orange and brown, with a few touches of green, were the color scheme at the luncheon given by Mrs. Van Houten MacBride today to present her debutante daughter, Constance Ann. Her wine pallid was trimmed with blue and wine velvet and all her other accessories were wine. Mrs. MacBride, a tiny and very attractive brunette, chose a simple dress of plum color wool with a hat of the same fabric. She wore blue orchids and Constance Ann's were white with brown centers.

Young Doctor Arden Faces Chilly Word

CHAPTER ONE

YOUNG Doctor Arden was going through the process of re-orienting himself after a night's sleep.

He had been doing that now for two weeks. He would open his eyes, gaze for a second or two at his strange surroundings, and then close them again.

The wide brass bed with the sagging springs became the narrow one of his hospital-bedroom; the telephone beside the bed would ring at any moment, and he would have to hurry into his clothes and go, half awake, to the slow old elevator with the ancient colored Joe inside.

"Let me off at the corner of the park, Joe. Got to meet a lady."

"Yes, sir," Joe would say, grinning.

It was an old joke between them, but for Joe it had never lost its humor.

The elevator would rise with deliberation. It was an open cage and there would be vistas of light bare halls, poorly lighted and of tired night nurses waiting hopefully for the dawn, or of convalescents from the wards, in hospital trousers or loose wrappers, shuffling along in carpet slippers for this purpose or that.

Then somewhere the elevator would stop, and he would step out on the brightly lit floor of his room. His hand in his pocket, Doctor Arden would find the thermometer. His temperature been dropping ever since three o'clock.

For a little time then he would be king. More, he would be a god of sorts; nurses hurrying to obey his orders, the ward watching him with interest, and perhaps some feeble life hanging on the recovery of his skill.

"Yes, Doctor."

"All right, hand this will to the nurse, please."

LIFE VS. DEATH

He would stand at the foot of the bed, holding to a wall, waiting for the rise and fall of a chest. He would always sharply contracted at such times. It consisted only of the patient on the bed and himself with a nurse hovering by.

But sometimes, especially if the call came early in his sleep, he acted by a sort of automatism. He would go through the proper motions, but in the morning he would hardly remember. There might be an empty bed in a ward, the patient gone and the mattress rolled up on the wire springs, ready for sterilizing.

It would come to him then with a shock that he had seen a human soul pass on the night before and had gone back to bed and forgotten it.

"Well, you did all you could, Doctor."

"I wonder," he would say, and feel the eyes of the ward on him.

All day he would have a sense of guilt. Then it would pass. By evening, in the internist's room, he would be drinking a surreptitious glass of beer and saying, "Nothing to do with that fellow in A. Came in too late. Who wants some poker?"

But it was not quite so easy as that. He had a bad habit of going back over his cases. The poker game would start; some of the interns, Scott, the X-ray man, and perhaps Dickinson from the laboratory.

Sometimes six were playing, sometimes only two were left to mark time. But there would be times when his mind wandered back to some empty bed in the silent hospital overhead.

"Wake up, Chris! What are you dreaming about?"

His name, which was Ned, had been altered by some wag to Christ and from that to Chris.

"Sorry. I'll check the bed."

HAD HE FAILED?

It would pass, he knew. In a few hours or a day he would have forgotten. His big heavily-shouldered frame would once more have withstood the rigors of the wards, and once more at times he would be king or even God to his small domain. He would whistle in the corridors and make the little jokes in the wards.

"Hold still, now. This is going to hurt you more than it hurts me!"

Or "Kick with that leg! Sure you will. You've been kicking ever since you came in here."

There would be a triumphant swing to his shoulders under the white coat when at last the dressings were done and the wards quiet. He would change his soiled coat for a fresh one, light a cigarette, and lie down with a nurse.

"Well, I suppose you were out during last night?"

"Dadgum! I've got other uses for my feet."

"Well, they're very nice feet," he would say, and wander on cheerfully.

But there were many times when he felt that he had failed. Sometimes when the screens would be up around the bed, he would be alone with the patient, just the two of them, and it would seem strange to him that one of them was going on into death and the other back to a warm room and to sleep.

It seemed unfair. He felt ashamed then of his vitality, and of the fact that when it was over, he meant to see if there was anything left from the night nurses' supper.

Dr. Arden grunted and turned over. He was slowly awakening now, beginning to remember. That last night in the hospital, for instance, he had made his final rounds at midnight, saying a sort of mute farewell to all familiar things. Shabby and old as it was, he had loved every corner of it. Here and there in the wards a patient had been awake, and he had stood by the bed in the semidarkness.

"Sorry you're going, Doctor. Well miss you."

"Sorry to go, old man."

CARE WITHOUT LOVE

But it was in the children's ward that he had remained the longest. A small girl there was crying, and he had gone in and picked her up. "What's the matter, sweetheart?"

AS HUMAN SOULS PASS ON in the night, Doctor Arden pauses to light a cigarette and to chat with the tired hospital nurse. He tries to be cheerful, but regrets and remorse haunt him.

"Chris, what's the matter?"

"I want my mother."

He had wrapped a blanket around her and she was lying in that ward, his bed, helpless and filled with pity. These little wails and strays—the hospital gave them care, but it could not give them love. He held her close in his arms.

"If I sit down with you, will you go to sleep?"

"No, I won't."

So he had sat down with her on one of the hard ward chairs, and after a time she had fallen asleep.

Somewhere ahead of him lay the future, unknown and mysterious, but somewhere and someday, God willing, there would be in it some quiet room, and like this he would be holding in his arms a child of his own.

That had been his real farewell to the hospital, although he made a formal one the next day, going cheerfully, shaking hands, laughing, promising to come back often.

Then at last he heard the big front doors close behind him and knew that he was through with that phase of his life and that he was at last alone in a not too friendly world.

He was fully awake now. He opened his eyes, yawned and stretched, and as he did so a brass ball from the top of the bed fell down and struck him sharply on the head. His reaction was instant and indignant. He caught it up and flung it across the room, and the resultant clamor broke the Sunday morning calm like an explosion.

When it had subsided he heard slow footsteps climbing the stairs and a drawing voice outside when he recognized as belonging to Henry Walters, with whom in his whose family he shared the house.

"Anything wrong, Doc?"

"That ball fell off the bed again and hit me. And don't call me in."

"I fixed it yesterday. That's all."

Well, it didn't stay fixed. Can I get through to the bath now?"

THE WRONG FAMILY

Henry, grinning, showed his teeth. "TV to you, Doc. Dick got home kinda late last night and his mother thought he'd better sleep this morning. He ain't so well. If you wouldn't mind using the back stairs—"

"It won't kill him if I go through with it."

Access to the bathroom was through the room occupied by Dick and a part of the arrangement had been that Dick should be up and out early for that reason. But the last thing in Dick Walters' mind was to be up and out early, and now Chris heard Henry's apologetic cough again.

"I'm sorry. He's locked the doors."

Chris sat up on the side of the bed. Already he knew that he had made a mistake in adopting the Walters family. He felt a vague sympathy for the mild, inefficient man outside, and a sort of pity for the drab and listless woman who was his wife. This sympathy at that moment was not lessened by a voice, young, feminine, and sharp, from the hall bedroom next to his.

"For heaven's sake, Father, what's the mess? And on Sunday morning at that!"

"It's a little noise. You go to sleep again."

"I've got a fine chance of going to sleep again."

"TERRIBLY SORRY"

Chris smiled grimly to himself. Already he knew that Katie Walters would not appear downstairs.

He was certain that the morning work was done.

"All right, Mr. Walters. I'll use the back stairs," he called, and with that he had been doing that now for two weeks. He would open his eyes, gaze for a second or two at his strange surroundings, and then close them again.

The wide brass bed with the sagging springs became the narrow one of his hospital-bedroom; the telephone beside the bed would ring at any moment, and he would have to hurry into his clothes and go, half awake, to the slow old elevator with the ancient colored Joe inside.

Radio Talk Discussed In France

Special to Boston Evening American

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The radio address of William Randolph Hearst was the subject of wide discussion among leading French politicians today.

Mr. Hearst's talk, a vigorous reply to the recent speech by Winston Churchill, in which the British statesman urged the United States to join the British in a world war, was discussed prominently in the French press.

Henri de Kéroux, noted editor and member of the Chamber of Deputies, was one of the first to comment on the speech by Mr. Hearst.

"A nationalist leader of the right wing, during the recent campaign, advocated a strong stand by the democracies. After listening and reading the published text of Mr. Hearst's speech, I understand that people like Mr. Hearst do not realize the exact danger the totalitarian states hold for the democracies. This is so because the United States is far from Europe."

"It is a common mistake, even in America, that if there is not a very solid common front between the democracies, they are going to disappear not only as democracies but as nations."

"There is not only a totalitarian state danger from Germany, but also there is that danger from Japan."

Hearst Foreign Policy Broadcast Wins High Praise

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—(AP) Hearst's right was the consensus of comment in this city on William Randolph Hearst's radio address Saturday night replying to Winston Churchill's broadcast on the previous Sunday urging British-French-American political and military cooperation.

Bishop Edwin Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist Episcopal Church remarked:

"The United States has always wanted peace, and Mr. Hearst gives sound advice in his editorial when he warns this country to avoid European entanglements and mind its own business."

Hearst Speech Stirs Europe; Churchill Mum

Special Cable to the Boston Evening American

LONDON, Oct. 24.—European major capitals reacted with comment today on William Randolph Hearst's international radio broadcast, multiply rather than appraisal of Winston Churchill, who urged the United States to join France and England in a drive to save world democracy.

Not only the British press but also the press of France, Italy, Germany and other nations, in common with the United States, discussed the broadcast.

In numbers of European homes and in all the government channels the American publisher's address was read and discussed. Government officials were reluctant to make any immediate public comment, but in each of the major capitals the speech was a subject for the discussion of Mr. Hearst's broadcast, which was quite evidently being made the subject of careful study.

"Churchill, the Daily Telegraph understands, is not replying to Mr. Hearst and he does not wish to make any comment on the broadcast."

The Daily Telegraph published an account of Mr. Hearst's radio address in its London edition.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Bulletin:

The best show of the year will take place tonight at the Boston Garden.

Monday Morning Musings:

While those comical lads on both sides of the Harvard vs. Cambridge battle have been outdoing each other in attempts at low-comedy, doesn't Dame Boston fit somewhere in the fun? . . . For instance, the Harvard Stadium is in Boston, not Cambridge . . . It has paid for itself many times . . .

Saturday's Harvard-Dartmouth game probably grossed in receipts and concession-profits as much as $125,000 . . . In a year, the Stadium is approximately a million-dollar industry—untaxed . . . Boston even fails to benefit from the yards of publicity emanating from the Stadium . . . News reports of the big games are date-lined "Cambridge," not "Boston" . . .

Harvard vs. Cambridge has been quite a show . . . The Harvard boys have been "heiling" the Cambridge City Fathers and the latter group maintained the farcical mood of it all by going so far as to draw an order on the city solicitor for "incorporating Harvard University as a separate and distinct municipality" . . .

In the same mood, your reporter makes a suggestion . . . Let Corporation Counsel Henry Parkman sit down with the board of trustees of Harvard, his alma mater, and make a plea to take Boston "in" on the Stadium "take" . . . They are saying around School Street that if the state board of tax appeals continues its generous and sympathetic consideration of tax abatements, that poor old Boston will need every dime it can take in . . .

They are saying also that Richard Whitcomb, defeated candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, will not his old job back of expatriation at City Hall . . .

And that a sales tax, similar to that of New York's, is very much in the collective mind of the Boston brain-trusters at present.

Once Over Lightly:

Hayward Jones, the Bangor lobster king, upheld his reputation as the loquacious spender of the invading Dartmouth horde . . . He makes the Crimson-Green game the start of his annual week's pilgrimage to Boston . . . Joseph Eppley, the Dartmouth Manchester cheerleader, lingered over the weekend . . .

Gail Spencer, the singing glamour girl, has shorn her long blonde bob in favor of an updo . . . Faith Bacon's agents found no takers here for the bubble-and-fan dancer at the asking price of $750 . . . And no local nightclub seems willing to part with $4000 for a week of Ted Lewis and men . . .

Although it is suspected that the Narragansett season will be continued into Thanksgiving, it will not be. Two charity days will be held after the close of the meeting November 12 . . . Lou Smith's operation of the Tampa track (and this is merely a prediction) will be postponed at least a year . . . Another interesting item to turf-followers should be the news that Jim Milton, former starter at both Rockingham and Suffolk Downs, has been named general manager of Cuban Oriental Park . . .

But that Harry Hayes of Rochester, N. H., who was personal manager at Rockingham Park, is being considered as "assistant to the president" at Suffolk Downs, will cause ejaculations . . . At Rockingham, it is almost impossible to pry anyone save a native of New Hampshire into a place on the payroll . . .

Men With Wives" held a pre-view showing for the press today, and another important film, "The Citadel" will have its trade showing at the Uptown Theater tomorrow morning . . .

Last week, it was two English actors, Maurice Evans in "Hamlet" and Robert Morley in "Oscar Wilde" who had the critics a-sop . . . Comes a third, Raymond Massey . . . In the title role of Bob Sherwood's new smash, "Abraham Lincoln in Illinois," Massey is being acclaimed.

Swinging Around:

Exclusive Eddie De Large, who is playing at the Raynor, will open Jack White's annex to his famous "No. 18" (W. 52nd Street) on Nov. 7. Jack White's Rindbox is the name of the new spot, and the comedian can scout from his smaller spot through one door and take the stage of his new "territory" . . .

And a fond and solicitous farewell: Have you bought your tickets for tonight's Fall Frolics, where for the final time this year Maestro Goodman, and for the first and final time this year Maestro Rudy Vallee, will appear in person in Boston? . . . At the Boston Garden

Gala Stage Bills Continue All this Week

Box office sensation of the past week was the new Vinton Freedley musical comedy, "Leave It to Me," which goes into its second and final week tonight at the Shubert.

GEORGE HOLLAND

William Gaxton and Victor Moore, its co-stars, and Sophie Tucker, who used to appear on vaudeville bills with them in years ago, are enjoying a happy and successful reunion in Bella and Sam Spewack's slick musical.

Cole Porter provided songs ideally suited to the new leading personalities. But neither is it anybody else dreamed that Mary Martin would really run away with the show as the while she does a provocative stage team with City Theater's en-joyed.

One of the stage's most original and laudably written plays, Paul Vincent Carroll's "Sins and Substance," continues at the Wilbur Theater. This is the second of its four week engagement.

The distinguished, and screen star, Sir John Gielgud, is the star of this Critics Award-winning production. The season's most outstanding plays, "The Sign of the Cross," "The Sign of the Cross," and "The Sign of the Cross," are important in this Eddie Dowling production.

The play's run here terminates on November 5. Matinees for the remaining two weeks are to be played on Thursday and Saturday. Performances begin promptly at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m. after the rise of the curtain. The one is seated until the end of the first scene.

The stage's most glamorous sophisticated, Ina Cling, continues for a second and final week in "Yankee Doodle," the Charles Ford production at the Colonial. In this new play by George and Lewis Meltzer, Miss Cling plays a flirtatious Colonial lady who the author would have you believe cares more for her country than for her reputation.

Following Saturday's final performance, "Yankee Doodle" will play a week's engagement in Washington and will then have its New York premiere in Nov. 7.

Science's New Discovery May Solve Atom's Secret

By G. B. LAL

International News Service Science Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Discovery of a method to produce and neutrons, a powerful means to control atomic energy, today added another chapter to the story of the atom.

Dr. W. A. Alvarez, working with the Lawrence Scientific Institute, Berkeley, Cal., and the University of California at the University of California, has found a way to produce the atom of slow neutrons.

These neutrons are expected to serve as a powerful means to control atomic energy, today added another chapter to the story of the atom.

These forces for the use of man. When the neutrons move with high speed and energy they slip pass through the atoms. But slowly moving, colder neutrons have a very great chance to penetrate the nuclear hearts of the atoms, and remain there to produce tremendous effects.

Held captive inside an atom, the neutron can transmute that atom into one of a different element as well as liberate enormous energy in the form of an electron or radiation heat.

Dr. Alvarez suggests that these slow cold neutrons might reveal some key secrets of living tissue.

Questions relating to the chemical bonds of hydrogen in organic molecules may be answered for the first time by the application of the slow neutron technique.

By organic molecules are meant substances which are the ingredients of living tissues.

Yale Pins Hopes on Woman-Hater

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 24 (U.S.)—An "avowed woman-hater," newly gotten over the humiliation Handsome Dan the Fourth, 30, of taking the hamburger-smeared nose of a statue of John Harvard a blue ribbon at Madison Square Garden last year, today was Yale's new mascot.

He was presented to Yale by his owner, Cy Taylor, Eli varsity tackle, and will succeed Handsome Dan the Third, owned by Coach Ducky Pond.

The new mascot is four years old, is friendly, likes crowds, but hates women, according to Taylor.

Some difference has been in the past with Coach Pond's dog, who was the other was considered a woman-hater, and was not so friendly.

Race Track Money Has No Value 3 Million Suit Against Dwyer

By JACK CONWAY

DAVE WILSON has frequently told me that money at a race track hasn't got any value. It is like paper profits in the stock market. Up to the time you cash your tickets you are merely building castles in the air.

Two recent newspaper items give evidence of the fact that even the most important executives at race tracks have their troubles as much as the $2 betters.

Walter F. O'Hara, former general manager of Narragansett Park and the owner of the stalls in Washington that he had won $2,234,916 on horse races at Narragansett Park in 1936 and $1,819,881 in 1935.

Despite the fact he had his own racing stable and was close to the conduct of the track, O'Hara said that his betting losses amounted to $206,263 in 1935 and $166,849 in 1935.

O'Hara asked the government to permit him to charge off these losses in a money tax return on the ground they were incurred in the conduct of his business as president and general manager of Narragansett Park.

O'Hara's statement in regard to his huge betting may partly explain the drop in the market for the Narragansett Park this year. The money market men miss O'Hara's thousand-dollar wagers.

Mr. Boston

"Big Bill" Dwyer Faces 3 Million Suit

WILLIAM F. (BIG BILL) DWYER, former owner of Tropical Park in Florida, has been unable to make a fortune around the racing game. He has been named in Federal Court in Brooklyn by the government in a $3,715,907 suit for alleged unpaid taxes, interest and penalties. Some of the tax claims run as far back as 1922.

In addition to owning Tropical Park, Dwyer also formerly owned the New York American Hockey team and the swanky Casino at Palm Island, Florida.

In receivership proceedings last year, Dwyer declared he was living in luxury. His home in New York is in his wife's name.

Dwyer was always a lavish spender, and in the days of his prosperity would turn from $50 to $1000 to a friend and ask no questions.

When it was thought of his career, Dwyer was rated as a millionaire.

As head of Tropical Park, Dwyer could not say "no" when asked for a job. Those persons he could not place in regular positions, he put in what was termed his cheering section. Members of the cheering section were paid from $10 to $100 a week, and were permitted to devote all of their time to their private betting taking the sun in front of the clubhouse. Later Bill would buy champagne for members of his cheering section, and if they wished they could have dinner at his casino at Palm Island.

Dwyer wasn't as big a bettor as O'Hara. Bill's money went in touches.

Betting With the "Wise" Money

AT THE RACE track I have seen bettors who say they think they can beat the track, and who Walter O'Hara or Bill Dwyer might have said. They were under the impression they were betting the "wise" money, and were not betting the "fool" money.

It was I have seen bettors who say they think they can beat the track, and who Walter O'Hara or Bill Dwyer might have said. They were under the impression they were betting the "wise" money, and were not betting the "fool" money.

If owners of race tracks were certain that a horse was going to win a particular race, they could bet enough money on him to live in comfort for the remainder of their lives. Horse racing is filled with uncertainties which is probably one of the things that makes the sport so interesting to such large groups of people.

There was the case of Equilibrium, winner of the Narragansett Park race on Friday for a profit of $34,000 in the morning, and for a steady income of $10,000 a week with the same horse on the second race.

Equilibrium was a horse of the Massachusetts breed, and was a horse of the Narragansett Park breed. It was a horse of the Narragansett Park breed, and was a horse of the Narragansett Park breed.

Such things, of course, are not common. Otherwise the chalk players would die of indigestion quicker than they do.

All this is added proof that while one may be able to beat a race he cannot beat the race.

I no longer try to do so, and get a kick out of conservative betting, even though I usually end up with a losing ticket. I can get perfect mental relaxation at a race track or on a golf course, and I have never won any titles at either place. Perhaps if I were good at picking winners and at shooting golf, the sports would lose their attractiveness to me.

Green, B. C. With East's Best Heads For Fast In College Race

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—The lopping off last week of nine more teams from the undefeated football list seemed today to be only a prelude to wholesale execution among the leaders before another Monday rolls around.

Survivors included:

EAST—Pittsburgh, Dartmouth, Villanova, Georgetown, George Washington, Boston College (tied) and Fordham (tied).

MIDWEST—Minnesota, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Iowa State, Western Reserve and Northwestern (tied).

SOUTH—Tennessee and Duke.

SOUTHWEST—Texas Christian, Texas Tech and Baylor (tied).

FAR WEST—California and Santa Clara.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN—Utah (tied).

Virtually all these must run considerable risk this week as the following high spot program reveals.

East: Seven intercollegiate battles, including Army and Notre Dame, are on the card but the feature battle seems Pitt against Fordham at Pittsburgh in an effort to break a series of three successive scoreless ties. This appears a certainty, for Pitt has scored three touchdowns or more against every rival in winning five successive games the latest a 34-7 rout of Southern Methodist. Fordham, with a sharp ground attack, ran up 26 points while blanking Oregon.

Notre Dame, stopped cold most of the afternoon, finally rushed across a touchdown to beat Carnegie Tech 7-0 while Army was tuning up in a 40-9 conquest of Boston University. Ohio State, still a contender in the Big Ten race after a 42-7 runaway with Chicago, probably will move down New York University, now out 7-6 by Lafayette.

B. C. PLAYS FLORIDA

Boston College, tied 26-26 by Temple, plays Florida which has yet to win from a major rival. Duquesne, slumped by Mississippi State 22-7, meets Detroit, beaten 13-6 by Villanova. George Washington's perfect record will be at stake in a Friday night game with Mississippi, which ran up a 47-14 count on Centenary.

Dartmouth, which found Harvard a tough customer before winning 13-7 meets a Yale outfit which put up an astonishing fight before bowing to Michigan, 15-13. The first "Big Three" game pits Harvard against Princeton, which came from behind twice to tie the Navy, 13-13. Navy's next rival is Penn., 11-13 conqueror of Columbia's Lions who tackle Cornell, 21-6 victor over Penn State.

Syracuse, whose unbeaten record was by the boards last week when speedy Michigan State scored a 19-12 victory, plays Penn State while Colgate, after scoring a 14-0 triumph over Iowa, must play Holy Cross, powerful Crusaders who buried Georgia under a 29-6 score. Georgetown's Hoyas, whose 14-13 verdict over Mahattan kept them in the unbeaten class, meet Temple next.

Middle West: Minnesota's unbeaten Big Ten pace-setters return to the wars against Northwestern's Wildcats who tripped Illinois, 13-10. Minnesota, Northwestern and Ohio State, alone of the Big Ten group, so far have escaped conference defeat.

Michigan meets Illinois; Wisconsin halted by Purdue, 13-7, plays Indiana, beaten 13-6 by Kansas State and Iowa clashes with Purdue in other conference contests. Michigan State plays host to Santa Clara's Bronchos, who stopped Arkansas, 21-6. Marquette, beaten 21-0 by Texas Christian, tackled Iowa State, another unbeaten, in tied array.

Iowa State, Oklahoma and Kansas State all are unbeaten within the Big Six Conference. Kansas State should halt Kansas, beaten 21-7 by Iowa State. Nebraska, halted by Oklahoma, 14-0, meets Missouri, 13-9 conqueror of Washington University. Louisiana, Oklahoma, meanwhile, will play the tough Missouri Valley Conference outfit Tulsa.

SOUTHERN SCRAMBLE

In the Southeastern Conference, Tennessee's Vols, leading the parade with three successive victories, tuned up at Citadel's expense, 46-0, for this week's meeting with Louisiana State's Tigers who removed Vanderbilt from the unbeaten list, 7-0, on a fourth period drive.

'Pie' Bids For Bees' Catcher

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Some of the New York scribers reported that Fordham's amassing win over Oregon was just the answer to the Rose Bowl snub. . . . Waite Hoyt, the pitcher, is doing a nice job as sports applier over a New York situation. . . . The Pirates must do something about it, so Pie Traynor has started by bidding for Al Lopez (and here's a modest $1 bet he doesn't land him). . . . Fight fans should not forget this: Gunnar Barlund will be back in the heavy-weight picture almost before you can say "Jack Robinson."

Ceteris parca's fight with Henry Armstrong likely will be the toughest the little colored boy has ever had. . . . Garcia can hit like nobody's business.

ROSS LIKES ARMSTRONG

Barney Ross, who has fought both of them, sticks to Armstrong. . . . Joe Louis will be at the ringside when the thing comes off. The most popular of the newer coaches in the East right now is Ossie Solem of Syracuse.

That guy really is making a hit. The alumni as well as the fans and players are completely sold on him, and boys, that is what counts in the pay-off.

Pitt sent a badly routed bunch of Southern Methodist Mustangs back with their tails between their legs, so to speak, but Texas Christian made it up with that fine 21-3 victory over Marquette.

You'll see one of those football games you read about when Fordham goes to Pittsburgh this week. . . . both are primed.

Out in New Mexico, they think they have another Whizzer White in Bill Dyer of New Mexico, and All-American pickers might keep an eye on him.

GERHARD HIDING

Lou Gehrig, who has been bothered with a skin infection on his face ever since the World Series, is hiding out at Babylon, Long Island, fishing and hunting on the side. . . . Maybe you didn't know that Freddie Bartholomew, the juvenile screen star, is an expert figure skater. . . . The Brooklyn College football squad held only a light practice the other day because the players had to turn in and help erect 5000 bleacher seats for the City college game.

Congratulations to George (Tony) Hyman, who recently resigned as sports editor of the Laurel (Miss.) Leader-Call, to run for justice of the peace and defend 13 opponents without having to face a run-off. . . . That's what we call going.
